

Last Lecture Rubric (Final Copy & Presentation)

CONTENT CRITERIA	UNSATISFACTORY	PROFICIENT	ADVANCED
TEKS: 30.A Primary Sources 30.B Inferences and Conclusions 30.C Organize and Analyze 30.D Points of View 30.F Identify Bias 30.G Source Validity 31.A Terminology 31.C Transfer of Information 3.B Importance of documents 10.A Maps, charts, graphs 20.A Leadership Qualities 20.B Contributions of political, social, and military leaders 21.A Role of significant individuals on the development of self-government 22.A Points of View 24.D Contributions of people of various races 24.E Contributions of Women	Lecture is: Not written from the perspective of the historical individual. Shorter than four minutes Final paper is turned in more than one day late. Plagiarized in any way Shows minimal analysis of the individual, their historical impact, and their outlook on the world and the future. Student is unprofessionally dressed and clearly does not know the speech – reads directly from paper or cue cards and not to the audience.	Lecture is: Is written from the perspective of the historical individual. 4-5 minutes long (minimum 4) Turned in no more than (1) day late correctly to both the discussion board and Google Docs in the correct format. Original, Creative, and Engaging Displays effective use of research in lecture development. Clearly displays analysis into the events which shaped the individuals life, philosophy, and actions. Offers the individual’s “look” towards the future – their advice to the world, what they want their legacy to be. Student dresses professionally and does not read from speech. Some cues are acceptable.	Lecture includes all of the proficient items and is: Turned in ON TIME correctly to both the discussion board and Google Docs in the correct format. Delves into the individuals’ commentary of life events, world events, and the future including specific other individuals that may have or will have an effect on the country and utilizes quotes and other primary sources in the development of the lecture. Shows a personal connection to the individual through passion and energy displayed during the speech. Student comments on other student’s Last Lectures in the discussion area.
	0 ----- 35 ----- 69	70 ----- 80 ----- 89	90 ----- 95 ----- 100